If you are passionate about making a positive difference—at school, at work, in your community, and in the world—then The Duke MBA is the right program for you. With a curriculum geared toward a global perspective, a cosmopolitan student body, and partnerships with leading organizations around the world, your Duke MBA will provide you with a competitive edge in today’s global economy and a solid foundation to effect meaningful change throughout your career.

WHAT
YOU CHANGE?

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The first year of The Duke MBA—Daytime program begins in August with the Global Institute, a four-week session with three core courses that provide you with foundational tools for growing as a collaborative leader and understanding the institutions of global commerce. The Duke MBA—Daytime program is structured around six-week terms—a format that will allow you to explore more subjects and broaden your academic experience.

After the Global Institute, your first year will include approximately 10 core courses and 5 or more electives—a unique curriculum sequence that allows you to explore a particular area in depth and gives you a competitive advantage during your summer internship search. In your second year, you will take all elective courses. To meet your career objectives, the program offers more than 100 electives as well as concentrations in many disciplines. Formal classes are augmented by a myriad of practicums, independent studies, and internship opportunities and study tours that further enhance your experience at Duke.

The faculty understand there is no single teaching method that fits all subjects, so they cover the courses with the right mix of case study, experiential learning, business simulations, lectures, and more. Classes are supplemented with activities that round out The Duke MBA, such as student-run clubs and forums, lectures from the world’s foremost business leaders, company presentations, and networking events with recruiters and alumni.

Program-at-a-Glance

In 22 months, The Duke MBA—Daytime program provides a rigorous academic experience—both in and out of the classroom—that will prepare you for a successful career. A day in the life of a Daytime student might include:

"Fuqua is the perfect fit for me. Not only does it have a world-class faculty and a globally-oriented curriculum, but it also has stellar entrepreneurship and brand management programs. Though, the decision-making clincher for me was... the cultural fit. Following my first visit to the Fuqua campus, I knew that this was where I belonged. The students at Fuqua were not just friendly...they completely embraced me into the 'Fuqua family.'"

– Anjali Menon, Class of 2013

APPLICATION DEADLINES

Given the competitive applicant pool, you are encouraged to apply as early in the admission cycle as possible. Candidates whose ability to enroll is dependent upon receiving merit-based scholarship assistance and international candidates should apply during Early Action, Round 1, or Round 2.
