D.ED. SPECIAL EDUCATION (MENTAL RETARDATION)

Preamble

Prevalence of Mental Retardation is significant in urban as well as in rural areas. The history of training of professionals in the field of mental retardation is of recent origin in India. In the field of special education, the first training centre was started in 1953 at Bombay by a voluntary agency, which offered a diploma in teaching persons with mental retardation. Two more centers, one each at Madras, and Mumbai, initiated training programmes in special education in the year 1971. By the year 1980, there were nine special education training centres in the country. By 1986, there were only six training centers and the remaining centers had been closed down. In 1995, the number of centers offering training was 40. Out of these, 27 were recognized and approved by Rehabilitation Council of India. At present (2008), there are 64 recognized centres in the country offering training in D.Ed. S.E. (MR).

A special education programme must be seen in the overall perspective of habilitation and rehabilitation of persons with mental retardation, keeping in view diverse socio-economic settings, rural/urban location, specific cultural groups and specific needs of the persons with mental retardation pertaining to age, severity, family background, ecological and social milieu. It is well recognized that children of the school going age with mental retardation will require services from different professionals. A special education programme should be able to assimilate knowledge and skills from different disciplines and integrate and include them into the educational programme where specialists would continue to serve as essential resource persons.

The Manpower Development Report on Mental Retardation developed by RCI envisages professional preparation for different categories of functioning: teaching, education, rehabilitation and vocational training, supervision and administration. The objectives of RCI encompass constant revision and updating of courses. In this context, the DSE (MR) course, which was revised in 2003, needs a fresh look on the basis of opinions and suggestions received from various organizations. The RCI has, therefore, constituted a Core Group to go through the course structure, content, duration and all other allied issues. The present document is the outcome of an exercise that has gone into the process of updating it. Keeping in view the recent trend of education, the nomenclature of this course has been changed to D.Ed. S.E. (MR).
