Study Interior Decoration at Home

One of the most prized possessions any one can claim is a beautiful and tastefully decorated home. Your home reflects your, status, life style, taste and personality. The environment in which one lives, works and relaxes also affects one's mood and performance. Every one wants one's home to look pleasant and beautiful. But expensive furniture and luxurious interiors are most people's idea of better living and interior decoration. Nothing could be more ridiculous. Do not confuse better living with fashionable or luxurious living.

Unfortunately, ideas in the field of interior decoration are generally adopted from abroad or copied blindly from foreign magazines or furniture catalogues. The styles and designs often do not suit our socio-cultural back-ground, climate, living style and conditions.

Decorating means creating an environment that is as nice to live in as it is to look at. A well decorated home must be practical, pretty and functional. It should meet the requirements of all the family members. You can change your ORDINARY room, flat or house, in to something quite OUTSTANDING. And surprisingly you need not spend a fortune to decorate your home.

You can also make the art of interior decoration your hobby. But HOW to begin? You also want to decorate your home, most people do, but do not know the right use of colours, textures, patterns, furniture and furnishings. With so many options available, so many colour schemes, so many types of materials around, you are confused like any thing. Converting your vision into reality is not that easy. To expand your awareness of good design you need study, observation and proper guidance. Lots and lots of books on decoration are available but one can not buy all of them and they are expensive too. More over you can not become expert without proper and personal guidance.

Most of the people find it not convenient to attend a full time college due to lack of time. In many cases there is no such school or college available nearby.
